

70TH CONGRESS PROGRAM SHOWS U. S. IS NORMAL

No Big Foreign Policy Confront Legislators at the Coming Session

TO MEET ON MONDAY

Taxation, Flood Control, Dry Laws, Elections, and Farm Relief to Come Up

By George R. Holmes
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A survey of the legislative program of the Seventieth Congress, which convenes on Monday, indicates that at last the United States has returned to normalcy.

For the first time since the hectic early days of Woodrow Wilson's administration, an American Congress comes together without being confronted with an array of issues involving grave questions of foreign relations. There are, to be sure, some matters coming before the new Congress on foreign affairs, but in comparison with other years their number and importance is so diminished as to make them seem almost unimportant.

The League of Nations is a dead issue, the World Court has been pigeon-holed and forgotten, relations with Mexico are better than they have ever been since the Vera Cruz incident, the world war debts are all cleaned up with the exception of France's debt, there are no new disarmament conferences on the horizon, the treaties that are before the Senate are mainly secondary in importance—everywhere American attention is riveted on domestic questions rather than on foreign.

Taxation, flood control, power development, prohibition, election reforms, agricultural relief—and politics—these are the questions that have supplanted foreign affairs in the minds of the members assembling today from the forty-eight states.

In only one direction is there promise of a major development with respect to the country's foreign relations, and that concerns not Europe but the Americas.

Latin-American relations admittedly are not all that could be desired, and there is an element in the Seventieth Congress determined upon giving the matter an airing, either through an investigation or by other means. Secretary of State Kellogg's handling of Latin-American questions seems to be in for widespread attack.

Supporters of the Coolidge-Kellogg policy are inclined to blame Mexico and Russia for the undermining of "good will" in Central and South America. They claim there is constant propaganda emanating from these sources, and from European nations as well, and aimed at destroying American prestige, trade and friendship with the southern Republics.

To this the Democrats and critics of the Administration's policy retort that the State Department is itself the culprit. They cite the Nicaragua "war," the collapse of the Tacana-Arica arbitration and many acts of so-called American "imperialism" in substantiation of their claims. And they point to the fact there are now more American marines occupying Latin-American territory than ever before in history.

There were heated discussions in the closing days of the 69th Congress over the American occupation of Nicaragua and resolutions were introduced calling for the withdrawal of the marines. Since the 69th Congress expired last March the American "absorption" of the little Republic has been made more complete. There is now a semi-permanent occupational force of marines there; an American financial expert, paid by the State Department, has taken over the financial management of the country. Americans officer the newly formed Nicaraguan Constabulary, a new loan is about to be granted the Nicaraguan Treasury, and American soldiers will supervise the Presidential elections next year.

BEACH WILL FACE SCORE OF WITNESSES

Trying Ordeal To Confront Defendant in Court Today

EXPECT REVELATIONS

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 3 (I. N. S.)—The spectacle of a confessed criminal facing a score of defense witnesses for identification as one of the slayers of Dr. William Lillendahl, was to be the highlight of today's session of the Lillendahl murder trial.

As Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl and Willis Beach sat tense, with their freedom possibly dependent upon recognition of the suspect, Alphonso Anderson, Negro burglar, a prisoner in the Norristown, Pa., jail, was to be led into the courtroom shackled to a deputy.

Mrs. Lillendahl once failed to identify Anderson as one of the two Negroes she says murdered her husband, but she later declared the identification attempt was made under unfavorable circumstances. This was when he was brought here several weeks ago to be confronted by the widow after being arrested for robbery in Jenkintown, Pa.

Members of defense counsel said Mrs. Lillendahl made a partial identification of the man, but the prosecution declared she failed to do so.

Philadelphian Shot; Think Result of Gang Warfare

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3 (I. N. S.)—Called from his home by a mysterious message, John Paone, 40, was shot to death with a double-barreled shotgun fired from a vacant room of a house across the street early today. Police lay the slaying to gang warfare.

Police were apprised of the shooting after James Johnson, a taxi driver, had received a call to go to Paone's address. As he neared the house he heard the report of a shotgun, and a second later was confronted by three men at the Paone home, who accused him of firing the shot.

He told them he had nothing to do with the case. They turned back to the house, picked up the limp form of Paone, placed it in the cab, leaped in after it, and told Johnson to drive to Howard Hospital.

Paone was pronounced dead by hospital authorities. Later a man arrived and inquired after Paone. He was arrested and held as a material witness. Police arrested eight other persons at Paone's home and held them as material witnesses.

Gray-Haired Veterans and Youths Among the 82 Couples to Get Marriage Licenses in County

Prediction Is Made That All Records Will Be Shattered During the Year 1927 — Bristol Leads For the Month

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 3.—Grey-haired veterans as well as "youngsters" under twenty-one were among the eighty-two couples granted marriage licenses at the office of the Clerk of Orphans' Court of Bucks county during November. Never before in the history of the county have as many as eighty-two licenses been granted in November.

With business "picking up" in general in the marriage license bureau, all records will be shattered this year, it is predicted, for close to 800 licenses will have been granted before January 1, according to a statement of the Clerk of Orphans' Court. This increase is due in part to many couples from New Jersey who come to Doylestown for licenses. The Jersey law compels them to wait several days after making application. There is no "waiting" in Bucks county.

During November twenty-two of the applicants were under twenty-one. In one case the bride-to-be was fifteen and her partner was twenty.

Two veteran couples were granted licenses. Charles P. Bancroft, aged 75, retired, of 6910 Ogontz avenue, Philadelphia, secured a license to wed Clementine F. Eldridge, aged 59, of Cape May City, N. J. Bancroft's first wife died on May 19, 1926.

Robert Grinshaw, aged 75, of Oaklyn, N. J., whose first wife died in October this year, secured a license to wed Anne Oldfield, aged 74, of 2815 North Mather street, Philadelphia. Her first husband died in August, this year. They were married in Williams township, Northampton county, the return on the marriage license docket shows.

New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania furnished the applicants in November. Twenty-eight came from Trenton and twenty from Philadelphia.

There were thirteen divorced persons who received licenses to wed the second time, including six men and seven women.

The average age of the male applicants was twenty-nine and the female applicants, twenty-six. Twelve of the women were older than their partners. Fourteen men and thirteen women had been married once before.

Forty-eight of the male applicants and forty-five of the female applicants were not residents of Bucks county. Fifty-two of the female applicants told the clerk they had occupations other than housework.

Sixty-seven of the applicants ranged in ages from twenty-one to twenty-five and twelve were fifty or over.

Bristol, with twenty applicants, furnished the greatest number from any Bucks county community, while Newtown with seven ranked second. Yardley and Morrisville each had five. Perkasie had four, and Quakertown, Doylestown and New Hope, each two. Sellersville and Langhorne produced one applicant.

The ages of the applicants grouped is as follows:

	Male	Female
Under 21 years	6	16
21 to 25 years	30	37
25 to 30 years	19	14
30 to 40 years	16	7
40 to 50 years	4	3
50 to 60 years	4	3
60 to 70 years	1	1
Over 70 years	2	1

The ages of the applicants as they applied for licenses, with previous marriages marked with (*), is as follows: 31-25, *44-51, 24-21, 22-21, 21-23, 28-28, *26-21, 25-26, 21-21, 21-21, 32-37, 27-25, 34-28, 21-18, 21-18, *52-49, 41-35, 22-21, 21-22, *42-27, 18-18, 21-21, 21-21, 27-21, 22-21, 21-16, 24-27, 24-25, 19-20, 41-34, 25-18, 25-26, 22-22, 25-22, 26-21, *31-25, 22-21, 24-24, 30-24, *53-47, 30-23, *32-24, 29-21, 20-19, 27-19, 21-21, *75-59, 26-23, *31-33, 37-33, 25-21, *61-50, 19-20, 22-21, *50-45, 20-15, 24-23, *75-74, 21-20, 30-21, 23-24, 24-20, 34-27, 20-20, 37-19, 25-24, 28-17, 27-21, *54-50, 30-27, 21-21, 26-27, *24-23, 34-23, 22-21, 21-22, 22-18, 23-22, 29-21, *29-35, 28-27, 30-22.

RADICAL CHANGE MADE IN 'PHONE DIRECTORY

Bristol Subscribers No Longer Listed in the Trenton Directory

15,000 LISTINGS IN ALL

A radical change has been made in the Bell Telephone Directory that is being delivered in Bristol and Langhorne this week, according to C. M. White, manager for The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. Instead of including the telephone subscribers in this community in the Trenton directory, as has been the custom in the past, the listings are now included in the book that serves towns in this section of the state of Pennsylvania, such as Churchville, Hatboro, Jenkintown and Elkins Park and other nearby points. It contains in all some 15,000 listings.

Great care was exercised by the Telephone Company in insuring the highest degree of accuracy in listing the subscribers. Mr. White points out, "Our force of skilled directory clerks," he said, "work on the actual printer's copy, and make thousands of changes during the six months period between the directory's publication. These copy changes consist in new listings, eliminations and changes of name, address or telephone number."

"After each copy change is made in the directory," continued Mr. White, "the work is checked and then rechecked by two clerks who had nothing to do with the original copy change, in order to eliminate error as far as it is humanly possible. Telephone numbers are then given a third checking," he explained, "for the Company puts special emphasis on correct telephone numbers. Not only is a subscriber greatly inconvenienced for six months by the listing of a wrong number, but it is costly from the telephone company's standpoint, since the operator must stop to question every call made for the incorrectly listed number."

A number of changes have been made in this section since the distribution of the last directory. Mr. White commented, and the new numbers are all shown in the directory now being distributed. For this reason, it is advisable to check up on all numbers in the new directory before placing calls. This will save considerable time and much inconvenience to calling subscribers where telephone numbers have been changed.

The subscribers are not classified in towns in this new directory, which in the opinion of some is a disadvantage. Despite all the care which it is said was taken to make the listings accurate, the Bristol Police Department is not listed on page 11 under the heading "Police Stations" and under which the police departments of other towns in the directory are listed.

TRAVEL CLUB MEMBERS HEAR ABOUT NORWAY

Mrs. H. A. Jensenius, Native Of Norway, Gives An Interesting Discourse

EXHIBITS JEWELRY, ETC.

Mrs. H. A. Jensenius, who was born in Norway, presented a Norwegian program to the Bristol Travel Club at the home of Mrs. Henry Stuart Paynter yesterday afternoon.

After giving a brief description of the geography, climate and history of the country which is one of the most northern inhabited countries of the world, Mrs. Jensenius called attention to the fact that Norwegians discovered and settled North America many years before Columbus.

She also stated that so many Norwegians have emigrated to America that there are more people of this stock in the United States than in Norway itself, today.

Mrs. Ida McElmoyr and Mrs. Marberg D. Weagley rendered "I Love Thee" (Grieg), and "The Poet's Last Song" (Grieg), two Norwegian songs. Mrs. Weagley gave a particularly brilliant interpretation of Grieg's "Wedding Day." Mrs. Emil Metzger read a selection from "Peer Gynt," by the Norwegian poet-dramatist, Ibsen.

Mrs. Jensenius concluded the program by exhibiting many beautiful pieces of silver jewelry and copper utensils made in Norway. She also showed a letter written from the King of Norway to her father-in-law.

OLD HORSE COMPANY HOLDS ANNIVERSARY

Affair Held at Huntingdon Valley Hunt Club, Near Hatboro

MEETING HELD YEARLY

HATBORO, Pa., Dec. 3.—One of the oldest horse companies in the United States on Thursday celebrated its 103rd anniversary at the new club house and grounds of the Huntingdon Valley Hunt Club at Jacksonville, near here, with over fifty members and a number of guests present.

The organization is known as the Warren Company for the Recovery of Stolen Horses and Other Property. It long ago outlived its usefulness for catching horse thieves, but its members meet annually in a social way.

Thursday they were the guests of J. Wharton Sinkler, an official of the Huntingdon Valley Hunt Club. Members were shown about the grounds and stables to gaze upon some of the finest horse flesh in this section of the country, bringing back in the memory of yesteryear when they gave up hours of good time to apprehend horse thieves. Following a short business session, a dinner was served in the club house.

Officers elected were as follows: President, H. Warner Hollowell, Ivyland; vice-president, Isaac Bennett, Ivyland; secretary, Joseph Carroll, Jr., Hatboro; treasurer, John C. Beans, Hatboro.

The regular places of meeting of the company are Hartsville and Warminster, midway between two points of Revolutionary activities, the Battle of Crooked Billet and Washington headquarters where on the hillside overlooking the Valley of the Ne-shaminy, the famous General had his army encamped.

It was along the Old York Road, leading directly from Philadelphia to New York, that the daily mail coach between the cities passed, and the stables of the first president of the company, was the relay station of the mail company.

The original members of the company were recruited from the vicinity of the Log College founded 200 years ago, the school out of which sprang Princeton University.

The first yearly meeting of the company convened at the public house of Mrs. Earl, now the Hotel Boland, Hartsville, on March 22, 1824.

Veterans attending the meeting recalled that one of the outstanding features of the company was to ride after horse thieves. Fifteen routes were outlined, embracing all the main roads and including such objectives as Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, and New Jersey towns and cities, and all the ferries along the Delaware River.

Many of the ancient articles of the original by-laws are still in force. Fine for late attendance is 12½ cents. The roll is read three times and members not availing themselves of any of the calls are fined. Fine for leaving the room without the consent of the president while the meeting is on is 6½ cents. Fine for smoking is 6½ cents.

Another regulation was that all horses owned by members of the company be branded with a hot iron "W. C." In 1856 this branding ceased to be compulsory.

The company has no charter and depends upon the honor of its members for the enforcement of regulations.

'VETS' AND 'MEDICOS' HOLD JOINT MEETING TO HEAR LECTURE

Dr. John A. Kalmer, U. of P., Is the Speaker of The Occasion

ALLERGY IS SUBJECT

Ailment Is Found Among Humans and Animals, Both

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 3.—Technical discussion of an interesting and informative nature to physicians and veterinarians took place Thursday at a joint meeting of the Bucks-Montgomery County Veterinary Club and the Bucks County Medical Society. It was the first time the "vets" and the "medicos" met in joint session in this district.

Those in attendance had the unusual opportunity of listening to Dr. John A. Kalmer, director of the Graduate School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania, discuss "allergy."

Allergy, it was explained, is a term given to a list of ailments among humans and animals due to extra sensitivity to certain foods and drugs. Both physicians and veterinarians come in contact with this class of ailments.

Dr. Kalmer made it clear to those present and urged them to make it known to the average layman that harm is done through the treatment of animals with tuberculin from year to year in the process of testing for tuberculosis. This has been found to be an absolute fact as a result of lengthy research work, Dr. Kalmer announced.

The speaker made it clear there is no hyper-sensitiveness as the term is implied in allergy, when injecting serums into animals, such as tuberculin, unless the living tubercular germ is already present in the body of the treated animal.

Dr. C. O. Newhouse, district agent of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Animal Industry, Harrisburg, spoke briefly on the details of tubercular testing and the proper method of filling out reports and the payments of indemnity.

Among those present were Dr. Anthony Meyers, Blooming Glen; Dr. H. Clayton Meyer, Blooming Glen; Dr. Adolf Berg, Doylestown; Dr. Wesley Massing, Chalfont; Dr. J. D. Foster, Newtown; Dr. J. A. VanSon, Fox Chase; Dr. C. A. Addis, Collegeville; Dean C. L. Goodling, National Farm School; Prof. Wing, National Farm School dairy expert; Dr. C. O. Newhouse, Harrisburg; Dr. John A. Kalmer, Philadelphia; Dr. John Diehl and Dr. J. N. Rosenberger, Philadelphia.

The meeting was held in the dairy laboratories of the Erlanger dairy farm at National Farm School.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

Adler, clothier and furnisher, with salesroom in the Forrest Block, announces a special sale of men's and youths' overcoats and suits. Savings as high as $13 are mentioned.

Many shoppers are wending their way to the Mul-Wood Gift Shoppe, located at the corner of Wood and Mulberry streets. There those in search of something new for their friends for Christmas will find articles "just a little different."

Umbrellas for men and women, hand-bags and suit-cases, as well as all kinds of apparel for men are listed by Singer Brothers, 317-319 Mill street, for the holiday shopping expeditions. Gifts for the male members of the family may be found here in great variety.

Gifts of watches are often thought of for both the man and woman. For those considering such purchases a visit to the jewelry shop of L. C. Wetling will repay them. Watches of both Swiss and American make are to be had, and the styles are pleasing.

As the Christmas fund checks are received in the many Bristol homes there will be many who contemplate placing new articles of furniture in their residences. Pieces for every room in the house are shown at Spencer & Sons' establishment, and will make most lasting gifts for any housekeeper.

DEMOCRATIC "HARMONY"

The plans for a Democratic harmony dinner to be held in the national capital in January indicate that Clem Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is determined to have amity at any cost. Known contenders for the presidential nomination will be invited to attend but will not be placed at the speakers' table. The talking will be done by a few leaders capable of delivering solid Jeffersonian oratory without leaving the middle of the road.

Under the rules of the projected dinner, which were drafted to prove how unified the Democratic party is, the speakers can hardly refer to leaders more recent than Cleveland without fear of creating internal discord, and political speeches without reference to living personalities may be soporific rather than stimulating. What price harmony if its chief end is inertia?

To name the next president the Democratic party must not only unite its own tug-of-war factions, but win over for its nominee the support of a considerable percentage of Republican and independent voters. The party must smother all issues to promote party harmony, but must trot out the same issues if it would lure into the Democratic fold voters from outside the party.

Mere harmony will give the Republicans victory. Mere harmony will give the Democrats a beating. A nice, gentlemanly convention, such as all good Democrats dream about, will do them no good whatever.

BOORS ALL

A reasoning being can usually find answers to his own questions, but there is one that stumps all. Why is it that motorists forget all etiquette and the rudiments of courtesy when they get behind a steering wheel?

It is not polite to swear at the dining table if the butter isn't passed the instant it is asked for. And almost everybody employs the polite "Pardon me" in pedestrian jams and crowded elevator. But get the same people in the driver's seat and there is loud honking and a cussword or two if the car ahead stops too suddenly or fails to start soon enough.

Seldom does one meet a driver on the open highway who will give an inch to the other fellow and surrender his right-of-way to convenience other cars. It is everybody for himself and curses upon the other fellow even though his faults and transgressions are your own.

Motorists spurt around corners without regard for the safety and hearts of others; cars cross and halt suddenly in front of others without giving warning, and, instead of taking accidents calmly and assuming one's fair share of the blame, drivers and passengers strive to see which can out-yell and out-cuss the other. Why is politeness left behind or forgotten by most drivers the minute they step into their car?

Once an individual expert in the art of cussing was said to "swear like a trooper." "He swears like a traffic policeman" or "he swears like a motorist in a traffic jam" are similes in common usage. Did the motorist get his education from the traffic officer, or the traffic officer get his from the motorist?

Some people don't care what they do and neither does anyone else.

Very few boys are as bad as their neighbors think or as good as their parents think.

Three Hundred Crowd To Show-Room To See Ford

A complete description of the new line of Ford automobiles was made public in Bristol yesterday.

When the reception closed last night, it was estimated that 300 had visited the show-rooms and learned the details of this revolutionary car which is to succeed the famous Model T Ford after more than nineteen years of leadership in the low price, light car field.

Visitors to the show-rooms yesterday and last night included city officials, heads of civic, commercial and professional organizations and many prominent business men. The entire sales force of Mr. Collier was kept busy throughout the day and evening pointing out the new features of this new car which Henry Ford himself has described as being "superior in design and performance to any now available in the low price, light car field."

Even before the display-rooms were opened there was a line of visitors on hand to be the first to get the story of the new cars. On all sides were heard comments of surprise at the striking change in the appearance of this new Ford line. The low, rakish lines, the striking new colors and the luxurious equipment of these new automobiles, made a marked impression upon the crowds of visitors.

Even more impressive to the visitors, however, were the details of performance as they were unfolded by attendants. Visitors were particularly struck with the speed, pick-up and ease of handling of the new cars and with the fact that they are equipped with four-wheel brakes, shock absorbers and standard gear shift transmission of the type used in cars in a much higher price class.

Attendants at the display rooms were overwhelmed with requests for private demonstrations of the new models and it is expected that the demand for such demonstrations will continue for weeks to come.

Ford factories at Detroit and branch plants in other sections of the country are now preparing for capacity production and it is expected that all dealers will be able to meet the demand in full within the next few weeks.

The design of the new line is so distinctly different from that of the Model T that the Detroit factory and branch plants have had to undergo a complete equipment change to produce the new cars. It is expected, however, that the next few weeks will see all former Ford production records broken.

In the meantime Henry Ford has announced that manufacture of replacement parts for Model T Ford cars will continue to be an important part of the Ford business. It is estimated that there are still more than nine million Model T Ford cars in operation and the policy of the Ford Motor Company, it is said, will be to continue supplying parts for these cars as long as there is any demand for them.

Powder Box De Luxe

Queen of all she surveys is the siren lady posing so statuesquely on her throne, which turns out to be a very useful little box, just large enough to contain the indispensable powder and puff. Now that it is fashionable to take up their abode in every well-appointed boudoir, it's a clever to "what to give" at Christmas.

Depicting Flying Exploits

For the first time in history, the world is going to be given an accurate close-up view of the most fascinating field in the present day activity—aviation.

Just what makes flying tick, how it feels to go soaring at blinding speed thousands of feet above the earth, what battle to the death in the air means to the chevaliers of the sky, all these and more will be revealed in "Wings," Paramount's epic based on the exploits of an American ace in the world war.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescart, beautiful orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barter her for gold to Ravoire, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris, where they live happily together. Manon's brother steals her for Ravoire; she escapes, and searches vainly for Fabien. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoire. Then Fabien sees her in a gaudy carriage, and suspects the awful truth.

"Manon!—Manon!" Fabien called her name from the depths of his starved soul, but the carriage passed on down the Boulevard and Manon had not even glanced in his direction.

He started blindly to follow and was gently restrained by Tiberge, "Don't my friend, it would do no good," he said pityingly. "I won't believe it. It can't be true!" his whole face was convulsed with grief.

"Then you must be convinced. Take advantage of your father's credit—visit your tailor and go tonight to Frascati—you will see Manon with your own eyes. I am told that she and the Comte are favored patrons at the Club."

"I will. And after I have talked with her, I will prove that you are mistaken."

For the first time in weeks Fabien's voice lost its dullness. He was to see Manon again!

The remainder of the afternoon was profitably spent with his father's tailor. Fabien's wardrobe was entirely depleted and it was necessary to be fitted out from shoes to a becoming, wavy white wig. The best of everything was demanded. Fabien wanted Manon to see him in a different light than their poverty stricken week had permitted. The result was that no young man had ever appeared to better advantage; at least as far as an observer could judge.

However, Fabien's confidence in himself vanished every time the vision of Manon, so gorgeously attired, flashed across his memory. Had the Comte won her affections and why had she gone to him? Those were torturing thoughts that caused Fabien's heart to sink until the agony almost engulfed him.

During all the weeks of lonely searching, Fabien had not for a moment considered the possibility of Manon's faith in him being shaken. Nor did it occur to his weary brain that she might have been influenced to depart with some mistaken idea of benefiting him.

Fabien was so impatient to see Manon that the early hours of evening dragged into an eternity. The result was that long before the Frascati was in full swing Fabien arrived. It was his debut to the gambling clubs of Paris.

As he descended the wide marble staircase his slender figure, so elegantly attired in rich black velvet and priceless lace frills, formed a flattering contrast with the light, gaily colored costumes of the players.

Fabien's face was pale. He wound among the tables, slowly, searching for Manon. He was oblivious to everything until he realized that it was too early for the real habitués of the place. He must wait still longer.

Gradually he weakened to the beauty of the great room. Dazzling crystal chandeliers reflected the sparkle from hundreds of burning candles and cast a brilliant glow upon the white-wigged people and the jeweled women. Livered servants kept the beakers filled with rich cherry colored wine. And at various gaming tables men and wo-

The work of flying has been virtually a closed book to the layman. The skyman have been almost a race apart, glimpsed only in the blue distance, unrecognizable even as human beings from the vantage point of the person on the ground. A bird he was and a bird he seemed. The world has read of his exploits, thrilled to his deeds, marvelled at the wonders of his work, but of intimate knowledge of flying, virtually nothing has been revealed.

In "Wings" the public is taken behind the scenes. The spectator is carried through all the vivid colorful life of the flyer. He is seated in the plane with the pilot. He soars to the heights where the earth becomes only a dark and shapeless blotch, he rides through the hitherto unseen canyons of the clouds. He fights through every swirling dive and maneuver of aerial combat. He swoops down toward earth in pursuit of the aerial arrow, and zooms back to the sky seeking new foes to conquer.

"Wings" depends for its human element on the affection of two youths for one another. In their home town in the west and in France as well, they love the same girl, whose role is played by Jobyna Ralston. Clara Bow is the feminine star. The two leading male roles are carried by Charles

For Baby's Comfort

If baby could write, it is fair to suppose that Santa Claus would be deluged with letters saying, "Please, dear old Nick, bring me a nice little hot-water bottle to make me comfy." A miniature hot-water bottle in a beflowered satin case is a cunning gift. It doubles the message of comfort if a bit of talcum powder be included. These nursery requisites are obtainable in matched sets, beautified with flower craft which creates such wonderfully lovely posies out of satin ribbon.

ANYTHING MAY HAPPEN IN FOOTBALL, THEY SAY

By Davis J. Walsh
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Anything can happen in football, they say, possibly even a touchback on a safety, and beyond all doubt several things will today, as the pastime makes a formal but not altogether official excent, whatever that may be. Perhaps the University of Georgia, about to conclude what probably has been its greatest season, will find out. Perhaps not. Anyhow, the Bulldogs must beat Georgia Tech at Atlanta within a few hours or that wonderful record will become a grand old ruin. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that a lot of fair football teams have experienced difficulty in beating Tech within twenty-four hours. Three thousand miles away, in Los Angeles to be precise, the boys from Southern California who lost the football game to Notre Dame on either a short or a long count or something or maybe nothing, will meet Washington in a game that was a long time coming but will make up for all lost motion, if any. Just as the Georgia-Georgia Tech meeting will decide the Southern Conference championship, so will the Washington-U. S. C. affair dispose of the coast conference title.

That is, it will decide whether the race is to end in a tie or whether a team that has nothing to do with the game at all is to become the champion, namely, and to wit, Stanford. For the Trojans must win this one from a very good team to even get a tie in the race, whereas before last Saturday they were undefeated the country over and riding high toward the national, instead of a mere sectional championship.

Georgia stands in much the same position today. It is the only major team in the country that has survived its schedule without either defeat or tie; also the only team to win from a fine Yale eleven. But one misstep tomorrow will mean a collapse of everything, for thereby Georgia not only would blow its chance at the national title but the Southern championship as well. And it can be done.

In fact, the way those virile gents play each other down in Georgia, anything is possible. Tech not only has a good football team but it has enjoyed a fair season, losing only to Notre Dame when the Irish were at the top of their stride and battling a sound Vanderbilt outfit to a scoreless tie. Georgia Tech has a real fighting chance to win.

So has Washington out on the coast. It hasn't had to travel east to Chicago, take a one-point beating it doesn't think it deserved and then return home to play a game on which will hang the success or failure of a season. Physically, the odds are slightly in favor of Washington because of that Chicago junket. Psychologically and on paper, the Trojans come into their own.

They got a tie with Stanford while Washington got a defeat. They apparently have one of the greatest scoring threats in the country in Barry and the better attacking line. And last we forget, that incident of the touchback or safety in Chicago should key them up to get the fighting jump, even if the matter of the coast championship failed in this respect, which is hardly likely.

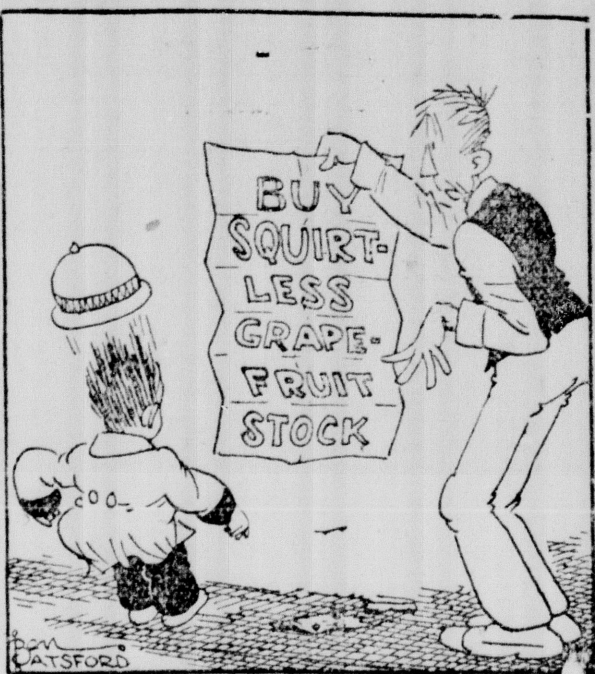

Still, a traveling team is often a losing team and the Trojans have done more than the huskies in the last week, the latter's point from Seattle being a minor consideration by comparison.

Mobilizing Industry Making Headway

By International News Service
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The industrial mobilization plan, which Congress provided for under the National Defense Act of 1920, was further developed and improved in the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of Assistant Secretary of War MacNider, which was made public today.

Transportation, a vital point in any mobilization scheme, has been given particular study and "much basic data is being collected so that requirements in transportation can be rapidly computed. Active contact has been maintained with the American Railway Association both in Washington and in the field.

"In May, 1927, the military committee of the American Railway Association appointed an executive railroad officer in each corps area to form a point of contact for all railroads with the corps area commander in relation to general matters of policy requiring executive action in relation to training-camp location, track construction therefor, and other military necessities."

The 1930 census, the report continues, has been so arranged as to "give us information on all unallocated factories and plants useful in the study of possible conversions in event of war."

Electric power supply is also considered under the mobilization plan and annual surveys of this supply are being made so that now the War Department can "state the installed capacity, the planned and maximum possible expansion in an emergency."

Moreover, "complete maps of the (power) transmission systems of the companies throughout the United States have been prepared."

A plan for the war-time co-ordination of the power industries was also prepared during the year and presented to the National Electric Light Association and this "plan is now under the consideration of the association with every prospect of final adoption."

Nash Show-Rooms To Have Special Exhibit

Announcement is made that, in keeping with the Christmas spirit, Nash showrooms here and throughout the country have been attractively and appropriately decorated for a country-wide "Give a Nash for Christmas" week.

Amid Yuletide surroundings "open house" will be maintained by Nash dealers during this period from December 4 to 11, inclusive. The public is invited to visit the showrooms and to inspect at leisure the various models in the Nash line of cars, ranging in price from $865 to $1990 f. o. b. factory.

There are 24 models in the three series of Nash cars, thus affording the Christmas buyer an opportunity to select just the car in keeping with his purse that would "best surprise the family."

It is of further interest that special easy terms for these Christmas purchases have been announced.

The new Nash models on display are distinguished by features and appointments which make them by far the greatest values ever offered by the Nash Motors Company. Every car in the line is a 7-bearing crankshaft six; all have 2-way 4-wheel brakes, exceptional steering ease, fast pick-up and remarkable riding comfort contributed by new secret process alloy steel springs.

The remarkable performance of these cars is matched by their beauty. Skillful selection of color combined with the finest quality upholstery and appointments gives each model the beauty and luxury of custom craftsmanship.

These features, it is pointed out, make every Nash model eminently suitable as a gift which will provide lasting enjoyment for the entire family.

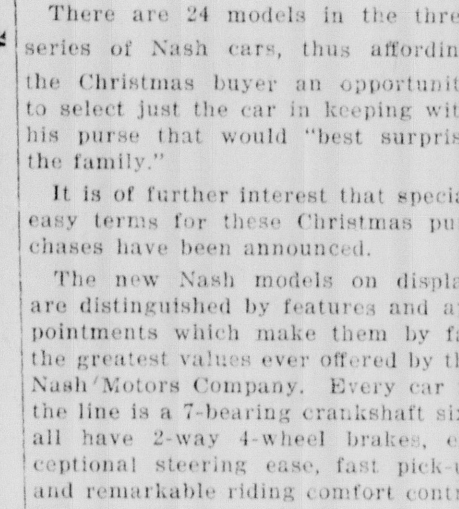

Among the 24 models there is a car for every imaginable purpose. The body styles range from two and four passenger roadsters and cabrio-lets to the big, luxurious Ambassador, leader of the Nash line. Many who have contemplated the purchase of a second car as a Christmas gift for family use have found in the smaller Nash models of limited passenger capacity a car which is ideal for this purpose, because of the performance and comfort which they offer at low prices.

The local Nash showroom will be open evenings until Christmas, so that everyone in this locality will have an opportunity to thoroughly examine the Nash models for 1928.
